

Petersons Vocational and Technical Schools West (Petersons Guide to Vocational and Technical Schools West, 4th ed)

This guide profiles more than 5,800 institutions of higher education that offer post-secondary awards, certificates, or diplomas requiring less than two years of study. Institutions that are included meet the qualifications of having been in operation at least two years and must be accredited by a national, regional, state, or specialized accrediting body. The programs included are defined as instructional and designed to prepare individuals with entry-level skills and training required for employment in a specific trade, occupation or profession. This definition of vocational and technical schools includes private colleges (also called career colleges), public colleges, and regional technical training centers. The first section of the book contains articles about the value of vocational training, apprenticeship options, what you need to know about placement rate information, and a guide to financing our education. In this section there are addresses and telephone numbers of those specialized and regional bodies that accredit vocational-technical institutions. The five short essays that follow these articles discuss careers in business, health care, personal services, technology, and trade and list specific career paths within these areas. Following the essays is a state by state listing of all schools with vocational-technical programs. It also features program cost, student services, financial aid availability,, and contact information.
