

A Travellers Journal: Adventure and Travel in Canada and New Zealand

This book relates the author's most recent few trips from Canada to New Zealand, in 2015, to hike in New Zealand's remote alpine of its Southern Alps ranges. During the most recent of these trips he had a bad accident in the mountains and was very lucky to survive it and then live long enough for rescuers to find and rescue him. The accident happened during a remote solo trip and he was not rescued until seven days after the accident. During the wait he had nothing to eat and nothing much to keep him warm at an altitude where the temperature dropped to below zero every night and froze the landscape.
