Excerpt: ... CHAPTER XIII. NINTH DIVISION OP THE TUAT. II. Kingdom Of Temu-khepeka-ra According To The Book Of Gates. The Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh Divisions of the Book Of Gates contain series of pictures and texts which are very hard to explain satisfactorily, and the difficulty is further increased by the fact that only one copy of them is known, i.e., that on the sarcophagus of Seti I. It is quite certain that they cannot refer to the Kingdom of Osiris, and we are driven to conclude that they are intended to illustrate and describe the region of Akert, which, as has already been said, formed the Tuat to which the worshippers of the Sungod of Heliopolis relegated the spirits of their dead. The First Division of this remarkable region, i.e., the Ninth in the Book Of Gates, is entered by the Gate called Aat-shefsiieft, which is guarded by the monster serpent Ab-ta; a company of gods keep watch outside, and the corridor is swept by flames of fire, and a warder in mummied form stands on guard at each end of it. When AFU-Ra has passed through, and the Gate is closed, the gods outside set up a wail, for they must abide in darkness until he re-appears. So soon as the god has entered the Division four gods of the Tuat appear and take hold of the tow-line, but they cannot advance until a path is cleared for them. The obstacles in their way take the forms of the huge serpent Apep, and a great crocodile, the tail of which is in the form of a serpent,s head and neck; the name of the latter monster is given both as Seshsesh and Sessi (vol. ii., pp. 242, 244). These have taken up their positions at the end of the Division, in that portion of the Tuat which is not very far from the place of sunrise, and a company of beings appear on behalf, of AfuRa, and proceed to remove the mon...
