

Cracking the College Financial Code: Every Family has a Different Combination: Learn How to Unlock Yours

This book can save you $10,000. Are you interested in unlocking your family's unique college funding code or will you be among the millions of families who will overpay for college unnecessarily? Think about it...if the insights provided between the covers of this book save you $10,000, the return on the $20 investment in this book could be one of the greatest of your lifetime. Remember these few things as you embark on your kid's college journey: Most people overpay for college. People do NOT understand the financial rules about paying for college. Word-of-mouth experience about FAFSA and college is misunderstood. Don't be one of those people. This is one of the most expensive endeavors that your family will undertake. It is also one of the most stressful experiences your family will go through. College is the area that has incurred the most debt this nation has seen in the past 20 years (over $1.3 TRILLION and growing) and has the largest impact on lifestyle for families that hope to retire in the next 10-20 years. How you play the college game will determine how much debt you have, how much FREE money your child receives, and how long you have to work in order to pay for it all. Every family is different and every college is unique. In this book, we have shared the model for your family to follow and give you the real plan and strategy you need to stay in control. We promise to unlock your code! Praise for Cracking the College Code: The insights shared in this book are practical, intense, user-friendly, and, did I say, practical? I wish I had known about how the college funding game is played before I sent my kids to college. -- John Boshoven, former Director, National Association for College Admissions Counselors (NACAC) Stan and Will not only understand every nuance of the college cost and financing process, they also understand how and why most people
